ROTULI CURIÆ REGIS, &c.

ALL the proof sheets of this Volume have been repeatedly examined, collated, and compared by me with the original Record, of which, allowing for the errors inevitable in a Work of this description, the following printed text is a true copy, except as to certain unimportant minutiæ in the contractions; for these being less regular than in later Records, to which the type is adapted, could not be exactly represented in letter-press. This is principally the case in such words as ap̄d q̄d d̄c̄s h̄āt &c. in which the line denoting the abbreviation extends, in the original, through or over two or more letters, as will appear by the fac-simile inserted in the first volume, whereas in the printed text it extends only through or over one of them.

25 April 1835. FRANCIS PALGRAVE.

The text is given as it appears on the face of the record, except as to the substitution of capitals for minuscules where required, and the addition of the following denoting marks:—

- || Doubtful or difficult readings; and also words which are apparently clerical errors in the original.

- * Apparent omissions or deficiencies in the original.

INTRODUCTION.

§ I. This Volume contains the Rolls of Michaelmas, Hilary, and Easter Terms of King John's first regal year: completing, with the Rolls published in the preceding Volume, his first judicial year. An antient, but not coeval, note upon the record*, includes the proceedings of Trinity Term which follow the proceedings of Easter Term as belonging to the first year, but this ascription is erroneous; and with these Trinity Rolls, I propose hereafter to begin the second judicial year.

§ II. These rolls furnish further evidence of the rights exercised by the Sovereign, before the royal authority was assumed.

Rot. Cur. Regis, vol. ii. 121, 244, 270. (See vol. i. Introduction, lxxxv, xcvii.)

Roger de Ramis sets forth in his appeal, that when the King was Duke, he was sent, by the command of Geoffry Fitz

* This Note occurs twice, at the top of the seventh membrane and at the bottom of another. In the first instance it has since been lost by the want of care of the binder by whom the Roll has been repaired.

Peter, to keep the King's peace at Dunster. It is obvious that the peace is here called the King's peace by retrospect, but that it was considered when proclaimed, as the peace of John Duke of Normandy. Whilst Roger de Ramis was thus occupied, William Malet, whom he appeals, levelled his hedges at Ludesland, and made piles thereof, and feloniously burnt his corn; and this he offers to prove by one of his men.

The Appellee denies the burning and the felony, and proffers three marks to the King, to have an inquest, whether the burning took place in the lands of the Appellant or his own; for he acknowledges that he took the corn, and carried away the same as being his property. It was a forcible entry, but in assertion of a legal right. Upon this plea, a day is given to the parties to hear judgment.

In another case Ralph de Lancelles appeals Hugh de Stotdon, for that "after the peace had been given and proclaimed, and when he, the complainant, was in the peace of the Duke of Normandy and Lord of England, the Appellee robbed his Lord, Richard de Lancelles, and forcibly carried off his chattels, to the value of twenty shillings in apparel, and one horse, and this he offers to prove against him by his body. The Appellee comes and denies the same, word for word. Pledges are given for the appearance of the Appellee. With him, the Appellant includes others in the accusation: and judgment is given that the duel shall take place between the parties.

William de Burgeslond prefers his appeal for the same robbery against Richard de Dunham: alleging in like manner the infraction of the Duke's peace; and in this case also, the duel is awarded.

Furthermore, Philip the son of Roger Dirill, appeals the said Richard de Dunham, for that, being in the Duke's peace, he robbed his wife of a gold ring of the value of one mark: and of other chattels to the value of five marks. And this he offers to prove by his body, as that which was "seen and heard," or witnessed by his wife, when he was in pilgrimage at Compostella: that is to say, the appeal was supported by the testimony of a party, who was an eye and ear witness of the fact or deed.

In a plea between Walter Fitz Ralph, demandant, and Ralph Fitz Ralph, tenant, the parties come to a final agreement respecting four acres of land in "Dercet," concerning which the plea was moved, upon the following terms—The demandant consents that the land shall be held by the tenant during his life, and that after his decease it shall revert to the grantor and his heirs for ever: and for this concession, the tenant quits claim to the demandant all his lands in Donestanescot: to hold to him and his heirs of the said Ralph fitz Ralph, and for his life, by the rent of twenty shillings per annum, in lieu of all other services. And it is added, that this concord was taken from a "note" made when the King was Duke of Normandy, and not yet King.

§ III. The foregoing documents, compared with those of the earlier portion of the year, fully prove that, for all purposes of legal jurisdiction, the Sovereign was recognized as Chief Magistrate, from the time when his peace was proclaimed. The civil jurisdiction of his courts was obeyed, and the violation of the protection afforded by him, was punished by the law. But it may at the same time be inferred, from the care taken to lay the trespass as having been committed after the proclamation of the peace, that, before the ceremony, the court could not have taken cognizance of the case. And hence the inter-regnum, properly speaking, existed only in the interval, between the death of the one King and the proclamation of his successor, nearly in accordance with the opinion of the London citizens.

§ IV. A suit is brought by Constancius de Heiden and Alice his wife, against William Clement, for lands in Herleston, as the right and inheritance of the said Alice, and of which Warine her father was seised in the time of King Henry the grandfather. And Constancius will deraign his claim by a champion, who will prove the seizin by his body, as by the sight and command of his father, who had seen and heard the facts, or, as before mentioned, had been an eye and ear witness. Rot. Cur. Regis, vol. ii. p. 5.

The defendant pleads that he is not bound to answer, inasmuch as he is excommunicated on account of a wound which he gave to a priest, and which he is to expiate by a pilgrimage to Rome. "This "deed,"—the plaintiff replies,—"was done "three years ago, and within that time you "have answered, and prayed a view of the "land." The defendant further replies, that the Official of the Bishop of Lincoln had given him a respite; but that the Bishop had commanded him to proceed to the Pope for the purpose of seeking absolution. This is a curious example of the manner in which attempts were made, on all occasions, to set up the legislature of the Court of Rome against the civil authority. Penance became a privilege, and might defeat the operation of the law. It appears, however, that the plea was overruled.

§ V. Further evidence is afforded that the earlier judicial records existed in a regular series, and that their absence at the present day, is to be attributed to their loss or destruction. Edward Fitz Richard is summoned to show cause why he does not perform to John Fitz Rimnild the fine, made in the King's Court, of one virgate of land, with the appurtenances, in "Wardeburge," made between Richard the father of the Defendant, and Rimnild the mother of the Plaintiff.

Rot. Cur. Regis, vol. ii. p. 236. (Vol. i. Introduction, p. ii.)

This entry, it may be observed, affords some insight into the custom by which the formation of surnames was regulated: and it shows that gentilitial names were, sometimes at least, guided by the descent of lands. John is styled Fitz-Rimnild, the son of his mother, and not the son of his father.

Other matters are alleged, to which John pleads in reply, that Rimnild his mother bought the land: and had so impleaded Richard the father of the Defendant, that the same remained to her; and, as his warranty, he vouches the Rolls of the third year of the reign of King Richard. But a day is given to them, on the Morrow of St. John, and a jury is to be summoned to make a recognition, whether the said Edward has a better right to the land than the said Rimnild and John; and this, because the Rolls do not sufficiently certify to the Justices the right of the parties.

§ VI. The Court had full jurisdiction over Ireland. This fact appears from an appeal preferred by the men and kindred of "Willielmus Brunus" against Warinus de London, Elias Fitz Phillip, Richard Gilmichael, and Thomas Norreis. There had been a feud between the parties, and Willielmus Brunus came before the Justiciar, Peter Pipard, in the County Court of Dublin, and prayed the King's peace, which his opponents pledged accordingly. Some time afterwards, William Brunus repaired to Dublin Castle in obedience to the King's writ, and as he was returning home, accompanied by the Appellants, they were encountered by the Appellees, together with an unknown individual, armed with a battle-axe; and, by the latter, Willielmus Brunus was slain, and he dropped dead in the fosse of the Castle. The hue and cry was raised, and the battle-axe man escaped by the help of Warinus de London.

The Appellants then severally challenge the Appellees. Robert Keinel, the "man and kinsman" of the deceased, proffers battle against Warinus de London, for that the battle-axe man slew his Lord at the bidding of the said Warinus, and that the latter also procured his escape, feloniously, the parties being in the peace of the Lord of the Land, and against the peace which he had pledged. Rogerus Brunus, "man and nephew" of the deceased, and Philippus de Livet and Henricus de Frideby, his kinsmen, in like manner and in their turns severally challenge the remaining Appellees, who, as they allege, joined in directing and encouraging the malefactor to do the deed. Warinus denies the whole, as a maimed man, his leg being broken, which mayhem the knights, sent to inspect the same, attest. The others all offer to defend themselves as the Court shall adjudge; and they proffer sixty marks to have an inquest whether they ever pledged their peace in manner before mentioned.

The proffer is not accepted, and judgment is given that Warinus shall defend himself by the fire ordeal, and the others by the duel; and that they shall all make their laws, in the Quinzaine of the Morrow of St. George, before the King, and wherever he shall be, whether in England or beyond the seas.

This is a very remarkable case in all its bearings. The refusal of the trial by inquest, brings the practice close upon that which is designated by the Conqueror's laws; according to which, in plaints importing outlawry, the Englishman was to defend himself by ordeal, and not by compurgation. It will not have escaped the observation of the reader, that the peace, which in the first portion of the pleadings is called "the King's peace," is subsequently designated as the peace of the Lord of the Land.

§ VII. A Jury comes into Court for the purpose of making a recognition of the rights appertaining to the heirs of Simon de Vautort to lands in Shepperton, then held by John de Vautort. The jury find that Richard de Vautort had two sons, Hugh and John; Hugh was his eldest son, and he left a son, to wit, Simon, whose issue, as it seemeth to them, should be the heirs of the land. But a memorandum is added, that this inquest was taken by the King's command, and not by judgment of the Court, or according to the custom of the kingdom.—The King's prerogative was known to be limited by the law; and though the Court could not prevent an infringement of the law by his power, yet the judges protested against the violation of its principles, effected by the Monarch's arbitrary will.

§ VIII. The Abbot of Bury complains against Osbert de Wechesham, a knight of the Bishop of Ely, for that unjustly he erected a gallows and made executions in the manor of Hecham, within the liberty of St. Edmund, violating the franchise which hath appertained to St. Edmund from the time of Edward the Confessor, and by that King's gift; and thereof he proffers the charters of William the Conqueror, confirming and attesting the same, and also of King Henry the grandfather, or Hen. I.; and moreover he puts himself upon the Rolls of Winchester, as to the liberty of St. Edmund. This is one of the singular instances of a survey, supposed to be the Domesday survey, quoted by the apparently inapplicable name of the Rolls.

Rot. Cur. Regis, vol. ii. pp. 6, 10. Monasticon, vol. i. p. 477. Ellis's Introduction to Domesday, vol. i. p. 1. Domesday, vol. ii. p. 385.

Osbert calls in the warranty of the Bishop, and he, on his part, warrants the execution, which he asserts to be as of right. And in like manner he asserts that St. Etheldreda has, and has had the same liberties from the time that King Edgar gave those liberties to the church; and he also produces the charters of Edward the Confessor, the Conqueror, and of Henry I., confirming those liberties. The Confessor's Charter yet exists. Hecham is granted by name to the Church of Ely, with sak and sok, and exemption from all secular and ecclesiastical jurisdiction, so that neither Bishop nor Earl should meddle therein. And Domesday, which affords no evidence of any right possessed by St. Edmund over the Lordship, bears record that it was held by St. Etheldreda in the time of St. Edward.

Another plaint, to the same effect, is preferred against Heinfridus de Criketot, for the same violation of the abbatial franchise. Heinfridus pleads that he holds as of the honor of Boulogne: and, that as from the conquest of England he is entitled in his land to raise the gallows and do judgment upon thieves, and this as from the liberty exercised by his ancestor, to wit, William his father, who caused a thief taken within his land to be hanged, first calling in the bailiff of the Abbot, who had the right of being present at the judgment. Furthermore, that when he, the said Heinfridus, was within age, Osbert de Glanville, who had the custody of the land, caused a thief to be hung as in right of the franchise appertaining thereunto, and that he, Heinfridus, had done the like, having required the bailiff of the Abbot to attend the execution, but the latter would not come; and of this he produces sufficient suit. And he alleges, that from old time the place where the thieves were hung was called the "qualmꝼtowe," and he is willing to put himself upon a jury of the two adjoining counties.

The Abbot rebuts the plea, by stating, that if William de Criketot did make any such execution, the same was done in time of war; and that if Osbert de Glanville did the like, he did so in right of the franchise of St. Edmund, inasmuch as he and Robertus de Cokeford were keepers of the temporalities of the abbey, which, being vacant, was in the King's hands. This record affords a striking example of the mode in which franchises were deduced from the Saxon era, as well as of the perplexity and difficulty of so deducing them. It also shows how firmly the Anglo-Saxon language was retained in common use throughout the country.

§ IX. Of the last fact we have another example, though offering some obscurity in its interpretation. Four knights of the county of Hertford being summoned to "say the truth" concerning the money, which certain individuals have appropriated to themselves in consequence of the indictment of a thief, certify as follows :—That a thief was apprehended at Berkhamstead, with a great booty, and that, confessing the fact, he was condemned, and led to the gallows.—Being asked, whether he had any money, he answered, that "apud silverhord "versus London," he had deposited ten marks, ten shillings, and a ring; and the verdict then adds, that the parties named, had gone by night to the place, where they had digged for the treasure; and the sheriff is commanded to take an inquest thereon. The Anglo-Saxon term implies "the Treasury of Silver;" and it would seem to designate some place, known traditionally, and possibly connected, like the "Niebulungen Hort" of the antient Teutonic heroes, with some legend or superstition.

§ X. In editing these Rolls, it has not been thought expedient to give the essoigns at full length; and therefore merely the dates of the returns are given. The essoigns printed in the first volume, besides exemplifying the practice of the Court, afforded the very valuable and important information relating to the assumption of the royal title; but the subsequent essoigns do not impart any particulars, except the names of the parties; and although the latter are not without their use, still it was scarcely equivalent to the expence which would have resulted from thus increasing the bulk of the volume.
